

CHTW Presents:

From Research to High-Impact Publications

A workshop on how to turn your research into an impactful story

Friday, October 29, 2021, 10:30 AM-12:00 PM
CHTM, Room 103

This workshop will review critical steps to translate your research into a story worthy of publication in a high-impact journal. I will go over the timeline of the process, how to select the journal to submit your work to, and how to build your story. I will also provide practical suggestions on putting the manuscript together, including tips for an effective title, guidelines and tools to prepare high-quality graphics, and ideas on how to be engaging in your writing. Finally, I will go over the structure and the content of additional documents that are required during your submission, such as the cover letter, private communications with the editor, and the response to the reviewers.
